Extreme wealth could buy a mansion in Millionaires Row but not immunity from unsavory business dealings or shameful behavior. May Hanna gave her millionaire ex-husbands hired Pinkerton detectives the slip to sneak out of the country. To escape financial embarrassment, James Potter, the manager of a prominent Euclid Avenue apartment building, gave his family cough medicine laced with poison, killing his entire family including himself. Married to a Millionaires Row doctor, the infamous con woman Cassie Chadwick posed as Andrew Carnegies illegitimate daughter and forged a fake $5 million check. Author Alan Dutka delves into sixteen tales of anguish and deceit that offer a startling perspective on Clevelands super-rich.

I just finished reading this book and enjoyed the stories by the authors

By Imxnavy2

I just finished reading this book and enjoyed the stories by the authors. The reason I wanted to read it was because my family is from Cleveland going as far back as the 1850's. Growing up my family would tell stories about Euclid Avenue as a child my family would travel the road routinely but knew nothing of the history. After reading this book and the Golden Age of Cleveland I have a better understanding of the significance of Cleveland as a manufacturing hub back in the day that I can relay to my family. I enjoyed both books and anticipate passing them long to family members wh are interested in the same stories.
